

Design-in Perception Lecture Series

Spring 2012

Fridays 12:30-2:00 pm

7-431 (Long Lounge/AVT)

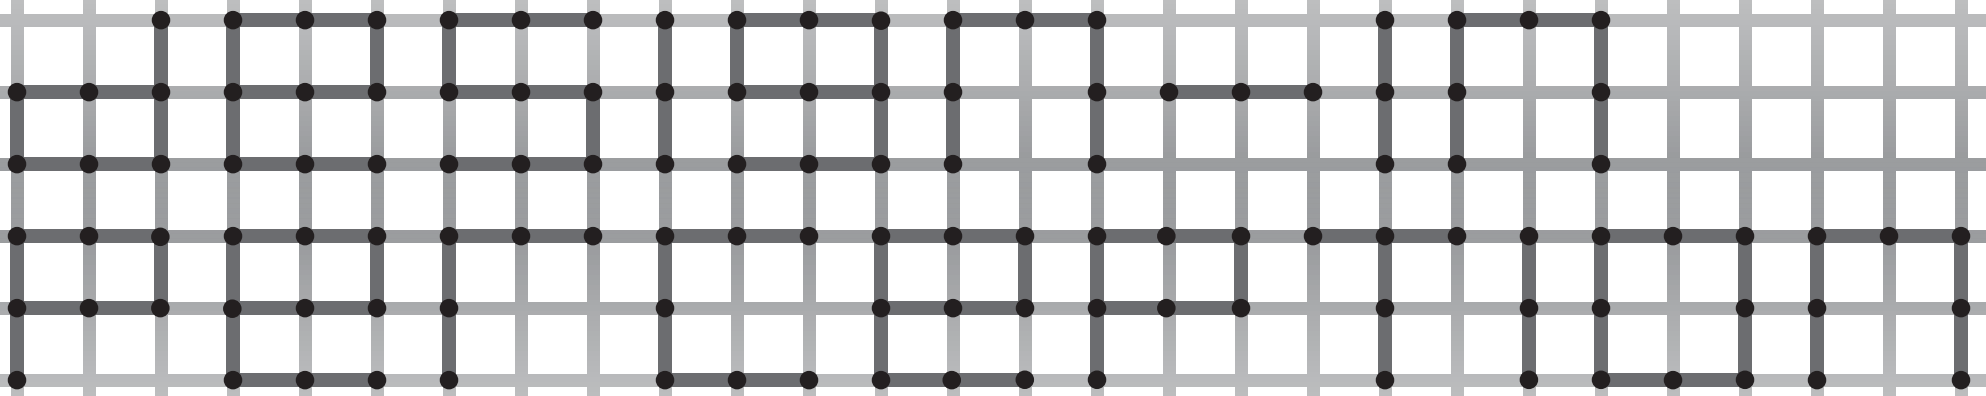

Contact Daniela Stoudenkova at danielas@mit.edu
Lectures are free and open to the public
Building 7 is mapped at <http://whereis.mit.edu>

dcg

design & computation group

MIT Department of Architecture
School of Architecture + Planning

<http://dcg.mit.edu>
<http://architecture.mit.edu>
<http://sap.mit.edu>

Designing Deception in the Magician Craft 03/09

Graham Jones

Assistant Professor of Anthropology, MIT

See Yourself Sensing: Redefining Human Perception 03/16

Madeline Schwartzman

Adjunct Professor, Barnard College, Columbia University

From Space Syntax to the Generic Functions of Space 03/23

John Peponis

Professor of Architecture, Associate Chair, Advanced Studies and Research, Georgia Tech

What Art Can Tell Us About the Brain 04/13

Margaret Livingston

Professor of Neurobiology, Harvard Medical School

Rethinking Architecture: From Structure to Experience 05/04

Arnold Berleant

Professor of Philosophy (Emeritus), Long Island University

Poster design by Daniel Rosenberg:
you can see design-in perception by following the dots with your eyes,
...however, whatever you see it is also there